19	Black	College Student	As a young black man,I feel that there is so much racism going around.I wish that for someday it'll all be different,by the time I have a family or even bring my children into this hatred world we call "America",which is the land of the free,but usually is not always a true fact,I mean slavery is over,but when can we all just get along and be equal for once?	11

30	Biracial	writer/teacher	race, the fiction that it is, has also taken up a significant amount of my time awake and asleep while on this plane.visually, to the world, white and black, i am a young black man, however eternally i know of my origin.even in the face of the eternal internal dialogue i make a conscious decison to live as an african american, or i least i think i am making the decision and not society, but how will i ever know.	10

39	Biracial	High School English Teacher	I am trying to get ny students to understand that "black" is a political term that limits their conception of who they are and what they think the life-options are for "black" people. I see it everyday. They are "playing the role" in which they have been cast. The way of being and the dialogue is largely dictated by music videos and the corporatized hip-hop culture. "Nigga" and "Bitch" are the words must uttered on my campus.	6
